Homes that are miles above the singing birds, commutes long enough to hold meetings, lives busier than the busiest bee. The mundane has long governed our ways, limiting our lives to mere existence, away from the very essence of what it is to truly live. But even though this is what life has turned into, it is not the way life needs to continue.

Welcome

Back to Life

An ode to the spirit of living

Tucked away in the serene suburb of Hoskote, Back to Life is inspired by the breath-taking architecture of Bali. With elements of wood, water and stone infused into the project's design, it's just the space you need to build your own little haven of harmony, an abode even the gods would prescribe for the urban soul longing for a better place to call home. With 10 acres of pristine property, Back to Life is designed for a life that deserves to be lived, taking life back to the way it's meant to be.

Nirvana, every step of the way

At Back to Life, connectivity isn't just so you can drive home with ease, it's so you can take a relaxing walk or go cycling, knowing that you're surrounded by aesthetic green spaces designed just for you. With interconnected pathways, benches around every corner, and walls decorated by nature, Back To Life promises to be an unforgettable paradise, right here on earth.

The central avenue is an expression of the naturally luxurious living that awaits you at Back to Life.

The Clubhouse

Carrying forward the Balinese design, the clubhouse at Back to Life has been intricately designed using wood, stone and the signature sloped roof from the island state of Bali. With amenities ranging from indoor games and a gym, to a swimming pool and open recreational spaces, this is a space for all ages to unwind and rediscover life, a perfect blend of modern amenities and soulful serenity.
